1. The present invention relates to an apertured laminate web suitable for use as a topsheet. Such webs are known from e.g. document EP-A-0 207 904 (D1), WO90/14813 (D2) and EP-A-0 165 807 (D3).

The present application does not satisfy the criterion set forth in Article 33(2) PCT because the subject-matter of claim 1 appears not to be new.

Document D1, which is considered to represent the most relevant state of the art, discloses (cf. p. 4, l. 1 - 13, p. 10, l. 27, to p. 11, l. 9, p. 15, l. 8 - 12, and Figs. 4 - 5) an apertured laminate web comprising a first material 10 and a second material 12, both liquid pervious (carded webs) and having 10 - 50% open area, and apertures with a diameter in the range 0,4 - 1,5 mm. Document also discloses the use an apertured laminate web in a disposable absorbent article. Therefore independent claim 11 also lacks novelty.

Also document D2 (see p. 14, 2nd full para., p. 15, 1st full para., p. 17, 2nd full para.) and D3 (see p. 8, 2nd and 3rd para., p. 9, 1st full para., p. 13, 1st para., Fig. 4) appear to substantially disclose the subject-matter of claims 1 and 11.

2. The additional features of dependent claims 3 - 9 and 12 are also known from document D1. Claims 3, 4: see p. 8, l. 9 and 14; claim 5: see Fig. 5; claim 6, 7: see p. 11, l. 7; claims 8, 9: see p. 11, l. 2; claim 12: see p. 5, l. 19, to p. 6, l. 5.
3. No positive contribution to inventive step within the meaning of Articles 33(3) PCT can be seen in the additional features of dependent claims 2 and 10, since these concern the selection of materials and/or parameters which comes within the scope of the customary practice followed by persons skilled in the art, especially as the advantages thus achieved can readily be foreseen.

1. The documents D1 - D4 have not been identified in the description nor has the relevant background art disclosed therein been discussed. The requirements of Rule 5.1(a)(ii) PCT are, thus, not fulfilled.

2. The two-part form of the independent claims should have been based on document D1.

1. Contents of documents should normally not be "incorporated by reference" (cf. p. 8, last line) unless it is essential to satisfy the requirements of Article 5, cf. PCT International Preliminary Examination Guidelines, Ch. II-4.17 (PCT Gazette Special Issue dated 29 October 1998).
2. The US application numbers (see e.g. p. 4, l. 15, p. 13, 2nd para., p. 21, 2nd para.) should have been denoted by their publication numbers.
3. The effective size of the apertures of the second material is, according to claim 1, at least 0,2 mm² (see also p. 12, l. 32). However, on p. 4, l. 27 a value of 0,1 is given.

According to claim 1, the apertures of both layers are aligned. In contrast, on p. 13, l. 14 - 15, it is stated that this is only preferred.

It is not clear what "effective open area" means in case only a part of the laminate is apertured, as shown e.g. in Figs. 3 and 4, i.e. whether it pertains to the apertured region of the laminate, or to the whole of the laminate.

4. The statement in the description on page 17, last para. implies that the subject-matter for which protection is sought may be different to that defined by the claims, thereby resulting in lack of clarity of the claims (Article 6 PCT) when used to interpret them (see PCT Guidelines, PCT/GL/3 III, 4.3a). This statement should therefore have been deleted.
